LABOR DAY VIRTUAL CONFERENCE

Sept. 4-6

"...I will have mercy, and not sacrifice..." Matthew 9:11-13

Rediscovering the Role of the Church & the Gospel During the Pandemic"

Since the start of the pandemic, the church has, for all intents and purposes, been forced "underground". The crisis has caused many to avoid large church gatherings but it has also provided believers pause to reevaluate their role in modern culture and the contemporary church experience. Have we been too comfortable for far too long? Has the church been lulled to sleep with "business as usual"? More importantly, how would the Lord have us refocus, regroup and redeem the time as we see it growing darker?

Join SWBC's virtual conference this Sept. 4-6 which will feature streamed sessions on Facebook and YouTube available to all. 5 speakers, 6 sessions, 1 Goal...The Great Commission!

Joel Bishop | Caleb Herup | David Jacobberger | David Lennox | Frank Perez

The Labor Day Weekend Camp seeks to encourage the refocusing, regrouping and redeeming of the time and opportunities that were lost to the attitude of complacency and comfort of "business as usual" Christianity.

Each session will focus on the What, Why, Who, When and Where of sharing the Gospel in the inhospitable world of the post-modern, post-Christian, and often bizarre, hysterical environment that accompanies a pandemic and a seemingly crumbling society.
